

Time to let the crisis go

and welcome innovation.

Everyone wants to see these turbulent times gone as soon as possible.
Except for those who view this as an ideal opportunity to create new,
different,
remarkable things.

With no five-year strategies. No new departments.
No multi-million budgets.

With an innovation provocation made by us.
In front of your company's management team.
For 90 minutes.

To help you ignite change.
Now.

You will be provoked to take a look at your business from a completely new viewpoint.

You will discover why innovation does not equal technology, but instead represents a way of doing things differently.

You will find out how innovation creates the kind of value you can get from nothing else.

You will hear examples about companies from yours and other businesses who are changing the rules of the game right now.

You will get all of this for 1,000 Euros (without VAT).

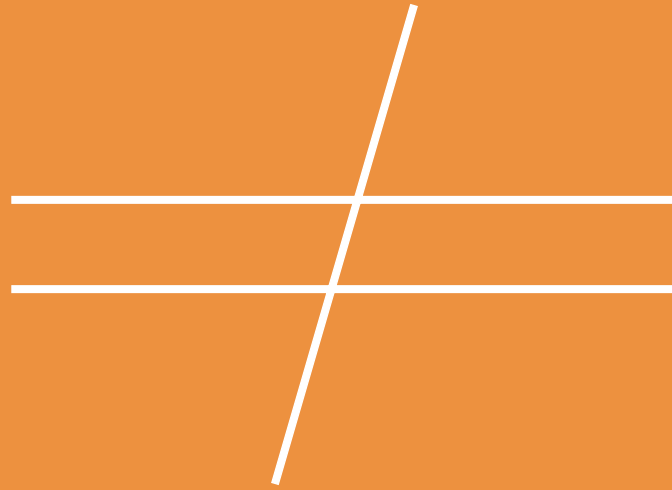

We are an innovation consultancy, helping you embrace change as a way of doing business and profit from it.

We provide information, ideas and solutions and assist you in the creation of products, services and experiences which stand out in the market.

We are two Managing Partners – Georgi Kamov and Nikolai Kamov, based in Sofia and using a network of people and companies in over 50 countries worldwide.

So far we have run projects in areas and industries such as education, life insurance, fashion, online job search, medicine, energy, food production, real estate, the automobile parts industry and media.

Write to us at provocation@nextdoor.bg or call 0888 472 072
to request the kind of presentation

you have never attended before.

nextdoor